L.O: To be able to recognise silent letters in words and be able to spell them.

SILENT LETTERS

Today's lesson is again something we have previously looked at...but not for a while – Can you remember your pictures?

What was this silent letter?

Silent letters are letters that you can't hear when you say the word, but that are there when you spell the word.

They just seem to me as if they are randomly plonked there – but we still have to use them in the spellings!

In fact...I've decide to do this lesson today for a reason....what day is it?

WeDnesday

Does anyone else say wed-nes-day to remember how to spell it ?

Can you spot the silent letters in these words?

Were you right?

Wrist

island

casTle gUitar

There really isn't any 'teaching' into how to spell silent letters – it really is just recognising, remembering and finding your own ways of remember them.

Like me WED NES DAY

Words with silent b.	Words with silent h.	Words with silent w.	Words with silent g.	Words with silent l.	Words with silent k.

Words with another silent letter can go here:

I know you have had silent letters as spellings before – I want you to go back over them and pick 6 of the ones you found most tricky and write them out in your neatest cursive handwriting.

For 4 of them create pictures like we have done before (like my lamb one)

If you have any spare time this lesson – ask someone to test you on your spellings or do some rainbow writing to spell them:
